RCG GROUP BUILDS ON VISION FOR A HEALTHY COMMUNITY

Imagine looking at a parcel of land and envisioning a healthy, thriving community. That's the visionary leadership that's second nature to Richmond-based RCG Group, whose roots here stretch back more than 50 years. And whether it's developing and managing property or investing in local health care, being passionate about a healthy community is central to their values and their business.

"We all care strongly about local health care, and the hospital is a vital and key aspect of a successfully growing community," says Gordon Walker, RCG Group's Senior VP of Real Estate & Development. "At more than 50 years old, Richmond Hospital needs to be modernized and upgraded, so it is ready to handle our growing and aging population," he says. "Two of my three children were born here."

With a strong belief in the power of community, RCG Group recently renewed their three-year commitment as a Volunteer Sponsor for all of Richmond Hospital Foundation's fundraising events, to recognize the many volunteers who expand and amplify the ability of the Foundation to raise funds by contributing their own time and efforts so generously.

RCG Group owns, develops and manages a wide range of industrial, retail, commercial and office properties in Richmond and throughout the Lower Mainland, and among their most recent projects in Richmond is the extensive renovation of their property at 7671 Alderbridge, which will soon house and unite a number of the mental health and substance use services at a new single site here in our community.

RCG Group's volunteer sponsorship will be hard at work at the annual Richmond Hospital Foundation Golf Tournament Presented by 2 River Green on June 5, which will bring together more than 250 prominent business leaders and philanthropists, as well as a dedicated group of volunteers, who all share the same vision of helping and improving health care for patients and families in Richmond.

"It has always been our mission to support and recognize people's dedication and passion," says Walker. "Knowing volunteers are leaving the comforts of home and doing what they can to help the community and support their local hospital, whether it's through donating funds, expertise or time, is really rewarding to us."

"It takes a whole community coming together to make Richmond Hospital even greater."
