McHAPPY DAY FOR LOCAL HEALTH CARE: NEW ACUTE CARE TOWER BENEFITS WITH PROCEEDS FROM A RICHMOND-BASED McDONALD'S FRANCHISEE.

Improving local health care, one meal at a time. That was the goal for Chao's Generation Inc., the franchise owner of four Richmond-based McDonald's restaurants. Each year, McDonald's Canada franchisees and crew across the country celebrate McHappy Day, an annual day of community giving. McHappy Day took place this year on May 2. For every hot drink, burger and happy meal that was purchased, one dollar was given to a charity. Richmond Hospital Foundation was the grateful recipient of $2,875.

Bill and Yolanda Chao have owned McDonald's franchises in Richmond since 2014. A former nurse at Richmond Hospital, Mrs. Chao is especially passionate about raising funds for the new acute care tower in Richmond. Chao's Generation Inc. has committed to making a gift in support of the new tower from proceeds of McHappy Days over five years.
